Dear Industry Partners

involved in the design and production of Neuro-interventional materials and technologies.

The journal Interventional Neuroradiology is pleased to announce that it has created a sub-section in the Journal exclusively devoted to our industry partners.

Industry partners are invited to submit to the editorial board of the journal a manuscript produced by the industry partner highlighting their history, strategy and perceived impact on the field of interventional neuroradiology as well as its future direction.

It should not be a bland commercial opportunity, but rather represent a thoughtful document, placing emphasis on uniqueness of product design and directions chosen. It could also be featuring scientific research that was carried out to support product design but never published in a scientific journal.

We hope you will consider this unique opportunity. Looking forward to your positive response.

Please follow the instructions for on line submission described in the "Instructions to Author" of the journal.
